LOUISVILLE JOURNAL

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.—Friday, January 24. Theodore Finch, whose case was continued yesterday morning until half past 2 o'clock, charged with stealing mutes from Mr. Welch, was discharged.

Commonwealth by D. Irard vs. Chas. Cumpe warrant. Dismissed at defendant's cost.

Commonwealth by Charles Cusick vs. D. Irard, peace warrant. Dismissed at defendant's cost.

Mrs. Rumer, assault on Mary House. Discharged.

Ben Fawcett (slave), suspected felon. Bail at $100 that he shall not hire his own time or go at large.

GEO. ZOLLICOFFER.—Gen. Zollcoffer, who was killed in the battle near Somersett, by Col. S. S. Fry, in politics, was yet very recent, the reverse of a royalist or secessionist, and his participation in this unhappy rebellion against the Union, the Constitution and the enforcement of the laws, was a singular contradiction to the tenor of his political career as a journalist and Congressman. It was, of course, the subject of deep and sincere regret to his old associates of the Whig and American line at the North and his Union friends nearer home, all of whom regarded him as both unobtrusive bearing in public life and to many of whom he was beloved for his integrity and sense of honor in private life.

The trial had been delayed in the Government in its greatest trial and joined the band of conspirators at Richmond, with whom he had no previous sympathy in common, and against whom the best talents of his pen and his voice had for more than twenty years been employed. Some of the acclivities of Tennessee rebellion which may not be accounted for until the facts which precipitated the State to its present ruin shall have passed away. That the election of Mr. Lincoln, which he opposed with untiring zeal, and from his point of view depreciated, as likely to lead to serious trouble, may have rendered him moribund on the slavery question, we deem more probable. That the ambition for military command was the afterthought, we give him the justice to believe. He was not a soldier by education or experience in the field, but he was a soldier in the ranks of the Indiana volunteers in 1860, and a staff appointment on the peace establishment of the Governor of Tennessee, was his only previous claim to the martial title which he bore. He had, however, that other quality for command, a cool and indomitable will, which joined to the highest moral courage, probably won the confidence of his soldiers against their own sense of his want of military training. The deceased General was a native of Tennessee; a printer by trade, in early country life, and subsequently a journalist at Nashville, where he was made State Comptroller, and then the representative of the metropolitan district in Congress. He attained the age of about 48 years.

The Evansville Journal gives the following returns of the Congressional election:

	Trimble, Class none	Clegg, H. P. Friend	Friend, Ferry	Ford, Smithland	Edwards, Parker's Friend
Unorganized	5	77	2	14	13
Friend's Friend	5	77	2	14	13
Ford's Ferry	2	28	2	14	13
Friend	4	14	1	14	13
Smithland	3	14	1	14	13
Edwards	2	14	1	14	13
Parker's Friend	2	14	1	14	13
Total	115	115	115	115	115

These figures give Clegg a majority of 110 votes, but it is thought full return will swell the majority to 150. The Journal says the vote was very small, as the secessionists did not recognize the election and the Union men were afraid to vote.
